

116.75
#6 Three summers ago there was a big fire in this part of the country, and they had cats to build fire brakes and one of them uncovered a vein of Galena but I was told by the forestry man that it was covered up again. The formation is a greenish looking shist possibly a phyllyte.

